

"MARTHA CUTTING" IS MRS. H. LEROY JONES

Mysterious Woman for Whom Robert L. Cutting Sent Out a General Alarm It Is Now Announced Is the Wife of a Millionaire Residing on Washington Square.

The prominent society woman for whom Robert Livingston Cutting sent out a general alarm at the Tenderloin station last night is Mrs. Herman Le Roy Jones, of No. 6 East Twelfth street. Mr. Jones is a millionaire broker and has been a well-known society man for many years.

Mrs. Jones is thirty-four years old. Fifteen years ago she was married to Mr. Archibald Kennedy Kearney Mackay. After two years of married life and the birth of a daughter, who is now in her father's custody, she went to South Dakota and secured a divorce. The decree was granted one afternoon and the next she married Paul Wilkes, whose acquaintance she had made at Sioux Falls.

Two years after her marriage to Mr. Wilkes she went to live at her father's home and then brought proceedings for divorce. In 1896 Mrs. Jones went on the stage and acted in this city under the name of Virginia Pell.

Mr. Jones was married to Mrs. Wilkes in his mother's home, where he and his wife have lived ever since.

Yesterday Mrs. Jones and a party of friends went to the Morris Park race track. Shortly before the third race, Mr. Jones went down to the betting ring. When he returned his wife had disappeared. None of the friends who were with her on the club-house veranda saw her go.

Mr. Jones made a frantic search about the grounds. He could find no trace of his wife, however, and returned to his home, thinking she might have gone there.

Mr. Jones searched among his friends all the evening, but could get no trace of his wife. At seven o'clock last night he received word from the Brevoort House that his wife was there. He rushed around to the hotel, but there was no trace of his wife.

At 9 o'clock last night a boy brought the following note to the Jones home, written in Mrs. Jones's hand: "I am going to work for my living, please don't look for me."

"RITA LE ROY JONES."

The boy bearing the note ran away and could not be traced. Then Mr. Jones and Mr. Cutting went to the West Thirtieth street station and reported the disappearance, that through a mistake got down in the note of "Martha Cutting."

FUSE BLOWS OUT; NEW PANIC ON "L" ROAD

Passengers Badly Frightened at Grand Street and Third Avenue, and Try to Leap from Cars.

The fuse of a motor car on the Third Avenue elevated railroad blew out this afternoon just as the train was leaving the Grand street station, causing tremendous excitement among the passengers.

A number of them attempted to jump from the train platforms and the guards had a lot of trouble restraining them.

The accident occurred just as the train left the Grand street station. The motor car had not proceeded more than twenty-five feet when there was explosion, followed by a sheet of flame, which seemed to envelop the front part of the car.

Several women screamed, and then there was a rush for the platforms. The guards massed on the platform of the motor car and announced that no one would be allowed to leave. One man attempted to strike a guard who opposed him and was forced back into the car with difficulty.

No one was seriously injured, although a number of women were crushed. The excitement ended as soon as the blue flame and smoke disappeared, and the passengers they went back to their seats. Some left the train. The road was tied up for about twenty minutes by the accident.

WOODEND GIVES $10,000 MORE

Broker's Attorney Announces at the Hearing To-Day that Mrs. Woodend Is Ready to Deliver Hadden-Rodde Stock.

The involuntary bankruptcy proceedings against Dr. William E. Woodend, which have been going on for the past few days, came to a sudden halt this afternoon, when Charles E. Harbier, counsel for Dr. Woodend, announced that he felt that his client was now in a position where he could make an offer of settlement which would be satisfactory to his creditors, and asked for a week adjournment for that purpose.

"The failure of Dr. Woodend," said Mr. Le Harbier to Commissioner Hickencock, "was very sudden and very unexpected. He had no idea that there would be a collapse, and was surprised at the position in which he suddenly found himself. It is extremely distressing to him to be in such a position, and he would like time to talk the matter over with his creditors and see if a settlement cannot be arranged on a part-cash basis. He is in a better position to make an offer now than at any time since his affairs became involved, and we ask for one week's time in which to do so."

He is indicted for refusing to say whether or not he had ever seen Richard Canfield in the house at No. 5 East Forty-fourth street and whether he had ever played a game of chance in that house.

When assigned at bar, Judge McManis entered the courtroom with his counsel, Alfred Lauterbach, he was called to the bar by Clerk Cowan and stood alongside a line of prisoners, one of them a spectacularly attired female who was being committed to the House of Detention.

When asked to plead Mr. Lauterbach said that his client denied the jurisdiction of the court and refused to plead for fear the plea might be construed as recognition of jurisdiction. Judge McManis said a plea would have to be entered.

A plea of not guilty was made with the usual reservations, including leave to withdraw and to move to quash the indictment. Neither Lewisohn nor the District-Attorney had any suggestion to make about bail, which was fixed by Judge McManis. A bondsman was ready and while the bond was being prepared Lewisohn was paroled in custody of his counsel.

ABEEL OUT ON BAIL.

Mrs. Edith Beckwith Smith Signs Bond for $5,000.

James Neilson Abeel, convicted and sentenced to the Elmira Reformatory for forging the name of J. B. Van Every, Vice-President of the Western Union Telegraph Company, to a letter of introduction was released in $5,000 bail this afternoon by Judge Martin T. McMahon in General Sessions.

Mrs. Edith Beckwith Smith, of No. 23 West Nineteenth street, bailed him out.

W. U. CUTS OFF POOL-ROOMS

not in earnest, and that they had no intention of cutting off their service to the rooms."

An interesting feature of the pool-room developments of the day was the establishment of the fact that Capt. F. Norton Goddard, the millionaire head of the Anti-Policy Society, made personal arrangements with the Western Union to supply him with news in a pool-room he said he was going to start. Capt. Goddard was accompanied, when he made his arrangement, by Supt. Burke, of the Anti-Policy Society, and an agent named Jones. In his report to the City Club he made no mention of his personal participation in the negotiations.

Justice Wyatt late this afternoon arranged to issue summonses for a number of the Western Union directors in proceedings instituted by the District-Attorney.

Patrons were beginning to crowd into the pool-rooms and the telegraph operators were ready to take the scratches and other advance information when the sounders in every pool-room in town ticked simultaneously. The message that flashed over the wires with the signature of the man in charge of the Racing Bureau was this:

"No service to-day or until further notice."

"It's all off," announced the operators. "No more racing news from the Western Union."

There was time for the early birds who had the price to get to Morris Park and bet with the bookmakers. The regular pool-room patrons were placed at great inconvenience and some rooms closed down entirely. There were all sorts of delays in paying off bets and getting returns. Most of the pool-room keepers depended upon the ticker service from nearby saloons, but as the ticker does not send out the advance betting and only the results for the races one, two, three, the outcome was extremely unsatisfactory.

DISTRICT-ATTORNEY SURPRISED.

Capt. Goddard, the District-Attorney, Supt. Burke, of the Anti-Policy Society, and one of the society's agents were in conference in the office of Mr. Jerome when The Evening World printed exclusive news of the action of the Western Union. Both the District-Attorney and Capt. Goddard expressed supreme surprise.

"It is the greatest piece of news I have heard for a long time," said Capt. Goddard, "but I can scarcely credit it. The result of this action will show what I have contended, that the pool-room evil can be wiped out if the Western Union does not furnish a racing service."

Mr. Jerome had nothing to say, but after an earnest talk with Capt. Goddard he called his deputy, Mr. Iselin, who has had the matter of investigating the connection between the Western Union and pool-rooms in hand for several days. Mr. Iselin took Capt. Goddard, Supt. Burke and the other man to his office.

It was Supt. Burke and the man who accompanied him who made a deal with Supts. Dealey and Mitchell, of the Western Union Racing Service, to place a wire for a pool-room in the house at No. 360 Madison Avenue, and furnish an operator who could "square things."

Mr. Iselin was asked if the action of the Western Union in cutting off the service would have any effect on the investigation. He replied:

"You will have to wait until to-morrow morning for that. The fact that Capt. Goddard and Supt. Burke are here ought to be enough to allow you to draw your own conclusions."

BLUFF, SOME POOL-ROOM MEN SAY.

Some of the pool-room owners seen by The Evening World this afternoon expressed the opinion that the action of the Western Union is a bluff, designed by President Clowry to show that it is impossible to close pool-rooms.

"You will notice," said one of these men, "that the information is cut off only from New York. I am getting mine from a nearby city through the regular channels with only a slight delay. There are pool-rooms in Jersey City, Hoboken, Newark and Paterson getting the full returns, and they are being wired back to us."

It is reported at the Criminal Courts Building that the District-Attorney did not decide until to-day to bring John Doe proceedings against the Western Union directors through his Dooling Witness bill. In some manner that he cannot understand, it is said, news of his decision got to the Western Union and forced the corporation to cut off the service. Certain it is that up to 1.30 o'clock there was every indication that the results of the races and the state of the betting would be sent out as usual. Not one of the telegraph operators assigned to pool-rooms had any idea that the racing department was going out of business in this city.

As against the report of the contemplated action of the District-Attorney, is the explanation given out by the Secretary to President Clowry. It is as follows:

"President Clowry did this himself and on his own initiative. It was done solely on moral grounds, and in response to the demand that pool-rooms should not be supplied further with racing information."

"No pressure whatever from the authorities or the directors of this company was exerted upon Mr. Clowry. He takes the whole responsibility."

"Will the service to outside cities be cut off also?" asked The Evening World reporter.

"That is a phase of the question that has not been decided upon," was the reply. "Maybe it will be done."

WOULDN'T SERVE MEAL TO MAYOR McCLELLAN

SEABRIGHT, N. J., May 17.—Mayor George B. McClellan, of New York, and his wife came here to-day to try to pick out a suitable cottage for the summer. During their stay they had the queer experience of being refused entertainment by the keeper of a hotel where they had stopped for luncheon.

On their arrival Mr. and Mrs. McClellan were driven around the village by D. B. Keeler, Jr., a well-known real estate man. Several cottages that are for rent were inspected by them and they were also driven out on the Runyon Road, where they looked at more cottages. On their return they stopped at a hotel, intending to take luncheon, and were surprised when they were informed that no meal could be provided. The owner of the hotel and Mr. Keeler have long been known as business rivals as real estate dealers, and to this is ascribed the hotel man's refusal to entertain the Mayor and Mrs. McClellan.

When they left the hotel they met Mayor Packer, of Seabright. Mr. McClellan inquired whether there was any place nearby where he and his wife could get a meal. They were directed to Hiedel's bakery, where they were served with pie and cake. Later in the afternoon they drove to the Highlands. Former Mayor Van Wyck, of New York, has engaged rooms at the Oceanview for the summer.
